TRUDY CRANE

CERAMIC ARTIST
COOKBOOK AUTHER

Trudy Crane is a multifaceted creative whose diverse talents and passions have led her to excel across multiple disciplines. With a rich artistic background, she has seamlessly transitioned from a marketing executive in the fashion industry to a celebrated ceramic artist, model, and author.

As a ceramic artist, Trudy has built a distinctive identity under the brand lookslikewhite, a reflection of her refined minimalist aesthetic. Her work, recognized for its timeless elegance, has been featured in renowned publications such as House & Home, House Beautiful, Martha Stewart Weddings, and many others. Trudy's creations transcend fleeting trends, captivating both art and design enthusiasts. She has collaborated with esteemed brands including Food52, Zola, and the acclaimed restaurant The Lost Kitchen, crafting bespoke collections that bring a touch of artisanal craftsmanship to the culinary world.

Beyond her work in ceramics, Trudy is an active and sought-after mature model. She is a strong advocate for diversity and a pro-age philosophy in an industry often preoccupied with youth. Through her presence, she challenges conventional beauty standards, embodying elegance, confidence, and individuality.

Her creative pursuits extend further into the culinary world, where she co-authored a vegan cookbook with her daughter, Chloe Crane-Leroux. Their collaboration goes beyond recipes, celebrating the beauty of mindful living, the art of the table, and a deep respect for nature.

Trudy Crane's journey is a testament to the power of reinvention, artistry, and advocacy. Whether through ceramics, modeling, or writing, she continues to inspire with her commitment to creativity, inclusivity, and a conscious approach to living.
